Q. Please state the current status of the ConneXion Project?

A. Tennessee Gas Pipeline ("Tennessee") filed its application with the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission ("FERC") on September 6, 2005. At this time, the application filing is pending. In its original submission, Tennessee asked for an order from FERC during the summer of 2006. Although FERC's date of issuance is beyond Tennessee's direct control, no issues of concern have been raised to date. In addition, Tennessee has filed state air permit applications with the respective state jurisdictions. Unless an unforeseen circumstance occurs, Tennessee anticipates an in-service date of November 2007.
